Dear Harold,

I am writing this letter to let you know how much I appreciate your recent presentation, Tax Issues Affecting Real Estate Agents and Their Clients. Westford College is always striving to provide the finest real estate education available and the fine job you did reflects well on our business.

We received numerous positive comments from the students. Statements like "high caliber" and, "I learned things I never learned in real estate class before" are the kind of feedback we like to receive. One student commented that, "This is one of the most interesting and informative classes I have ever taken."

One of the students present is the owner of one of the larger, better known real estate brokerage companies in the west Phoenix area. His comment was that this was an excellent presentation that provided information that is as useful to the agents as to their clients.

In fact, your two presentations were so positively received, we featured your class on the cover of our March, 2003 Educator Newspaper which has a circulation of nearly 20,000.

Thanks again for the great class. Your enthusiasm and professional speaking skill coupled with the up to date information you present, make us look good. We look forward to you providing many more seminars here at Westford College.

Sincerely,

Andrew Israel
