Where Values Make The Difference

March 24, 2009

The Chandler Hamilton Library appreciated hosting Dr. Harold Wong and his program “After the Wall Street Meltdown: What Strategies Still Make Sense?” at the Hamilton Library on March 6th and March 11 2009.

He was able to engage and captivate an audience for two hours with his financial candor, insight, humor and outstanding speaking skills. Incorporating an extensive PowerPoint presentation, Dr Wong clearly explained the reasons for the whirlwind economic crisis we are currently experiencing with wit and precision. In addition, he expressed future ramifications of the uncertain economy for the audience. He did this effectively by initially taking time to learn about his audience that allowed him to address aspects relevant to their situations.

Dr. Wong is very easy to work due to his responsive nature, quick grasp of concepts and his dedication to sharing his knowledge. In addition, Dr. Wong is proactive about marketing his programs and the library. For example, he provided well-designed flyers plus a large poster to help increase public attendance of the library programs. He also promoted his library events in his popular Arizona Republic financial columns.

The audience appreciated his Midwestern pragmatism coupled with his East-West global outlook and willingness to share his wisdom gleaned from attentiveness, research and vast life & educational experiences. I appreciated him fully committing himself and giving his finely-tuned best to both a sparse daytime audience and to a healthy evening gathering. The audience left enriched and empowered with new concepts and considerations. Overall, it was lifelong learning along the highest levels.
